

Yannis Kondaratos was born in Athens, 1968. He studied painting at the Athens School of Fine Arts (1987-1992). In 1991, he obtained an Erasmus scholarship and attended the B.A. Hons Fine Art course at Middlessex Polytechnic, London. In 2012, he obtained a doctoral degree in art history from the Panteion University of Social and Political Sciences, Department of Communication, Media and Culture. He teaches painting at the Athens School of Fine Arts, from 2003 as a special research and education assistant, and from 2015 as assistant professor. He has presented his work in four solo and many group exhibitions. He has also participated in scientific conferences and has published books and texts on history and theory of art.